

Entry-Level Truck Driver and Service Technician

We're looking for an enthusiastic and energetic truck driver who wants to learn all about the heating fuels industry. This is an opportunity to work at a full service, innovative fuel dealer, to learn to deliver heating oil, kerosene and wood pellets, and to get experience with home heating equipment maintenance and repair. We will provide free and extensive classroom and on the job training for the successful candidate.

Service Technicians are in high demand these days, and those entering the trade can expect to earn more than $50,000 a year within five years, when fully trained and certified. If you enjoy working with your hands, are looking for job security and an attractive career opportunity, we want to hear from you.

Initial Responsibilities:

- Heating oil and wood pellet deliveries
- On-call for after-hours work as needed
- Assist service technicians and installers
- Attend HVAC training classes and workshops

Qualifications:

- Commercial Drivers License, hazmat endorsement helpful but not required.
- Mechanical aptitude
- High school diploma, some technical college preferred
- Computer skills desirable, not required

This is a full-time position with full benefits. Starting wage based on experience.

In business since 2001, the Energy Co-op delivers heating oil, kerosene and wood pellets to 2,500 members and customers, primarily in northwestern Vermont. We also maintain, replace and repair a wide range of home heating equipment - including heat pumps - and conduct energy audits and energy upgrades. The Co-op is an equal opportunity employer, offers highly competitive wages and an interesting and supportive work place. The Co-op's exceptional benefits include: profit sharing, a $7,200 annual benefit allowance (equivalent to $3.46/hour), an employer-matched retirement plan, health and dental insurance, paid holidays and vacations, fuel deliveries and heating systems at cost, and more.
